Sin — What's It Worth?

Dale Jenkins

SIN

Will take you further than you want to go.
Will cost you more than you want to pay.
Will hurt more people than you could imagine it will hurt.
Will leave you cold, questioning, and cynical.
Will leave you feeling empty, dirty, and worthless.
Will lie to you, deceive you, and hurt you.
Will take you for all you're worth.
Will produce hurting, haunting guilt that will make you distrust others because you can't trust yourself. Will produce fear.
Will separate you from all that is good, right, and beautiful.
Will bring short-lived temporary satisfaction of carnal wants that will be gone as soon as the sin cools.
As you grow old will make you cold, distant, ugly, cynical, and full of hate.
Will steal your joy, your peace, and your friends, but most of all will damn your soul to eternity in hell.

GOD

Will love you deeper than you've ever been loved.
Will meet needs you don't even realize you have.
Will be there when your worst enemy tries to slay you or your best friend betrays you.
Will answer questions you believed never had answers.
Will leave you fulfilled, cleansed, and valuable.
Will tell you the truth, never lead you into temptation, and hold you close in His own protection.
Will love you even when you feel worthless.
Will produce a clean and clear conscience and countenance.
Will cast away all fears.
Will help you become all that is good, right, and beautiful.
Will give you a deep inner joy and happiness that will last when all the world around you is crumbling.
As you grow old, will make you become warm, loving, beautiful, hopeful, and loved.
Will give you joy beyond compare, peace beyond understanding, and friends closer than brothers, but most of all, will assure you an eternity in Heaven.

I want God's love! I need God's love! God, help me to anoint others with Your extravagant love in my every encounter. Help me to avoid sin that will slowly but surely separate me from You. Give me that love always, and teach me to so love.

"But God demonstrates His own love toward us, in that while we were still sinners, Christ died for us" (Romans 5:8 NKJV).

“Til Death Us Do Part”

Barry Grider

John Allen Gano was born in Georgetown, Kentucky in 1805, during the infancy of the republic. His family tree is filled with legendary military figures, including his grandfather, John Gano, for whom he was named. John Gano was a Baptist chaplain during the Revolutionary War and purportedly on one occasion baptized General George Washington. John Allen Gano's father, General Richard Gano fought the British in the War of 1812. His son, Richard M. Gano, became Brigadier General in the Confederate Army during the American Civil War.

What is interesting about John Allen Gano to Christians alive today is his conversion to New Testament Christianity and his subsequent success preaching the primitive gospel. He was converted through the influence of Barton W. Stone, one of the great heroes of the American Restoration Movement. Gano responded to Heaven's invitation during a gospel meeting conducted by pioneer preacher T. M. Allen. Having determined to flee creeds and religious institutions crafted by men, Gano humbly submitted to the terms of the gospel and was baptized into Christ for the remission of his sins (Acts 2:38). His obedience to the gospel frustrated his sisters so much they called for the Baptist preacher, Jacob Creath, Sr. to take Gano aside and “reason” with him about his recent conversion. Creath pleaded with Gano to renounce what he had done and implored him to consider his deceased grandfather, Chaplain Gano, and what he would think about his grandson's decision. Gano's response to Creath is classic, Elder Creath, if you will show me in this book where it says, deny yourself, take up your cross and follow your grandfather, I will follow mine through life. But I read it follow Christ, and am determined to follow Him until death if it separates me from all the kindred I have on the earth.

Such marvelous courage and conviction is to be extolled. In fact, Gano's strong stand for truth caused Jacob Creath, Sr. to study the scriptures that much more and he came out of denominationalism and began preaching the pure gospel, as well. Creath, and his nephew, Jacob Creath, Jr., who was named for him, both became well respected gospel preachers during the American Restoration Movement.

I can recall a couple who came to Memphis several years ago so the husband could study in the school of preaching. It was close to Christmas and I asked if the couple would be going home for the holiday break. The wife answered, “brother Grider, our family has cut us off and will have nothing more to do with us since our conversion.” When I expressed my sorrow over their situation, the wife responded, “don't feel bad for us, we have a new family, the family of Christ.” Jesus words came to my mind as he contemplated those who would leave everything, including family, to follow him.

And Jesus answered and said, Verily I say unto you, There is no man that hath left house, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my sake, and the gospel's, But he shall receive an hundredfold now in this time, houses, and brethren, and sisters, and mothers, and children, and lands, with persecutions; and in the world to come eternal life (Mark 10:29,30).

When a couple marries, usually a preacher will ask both the bride and groom to make vows one to another that conclude with the following words, “til death us do part.” Such ought to characterize the attitude of each one of us toward the Bible. I am so thankful that my family has never demanded that I stop teaching and following the Bible. I am so thankful that I have been able to serve Christ with minimal persecution. However, each of us must remind ourselves that Christ and His word must always be our priority over all other things in this earthly realm, even unto death itself.

Don Walker Returning to Southwest

In early 2016 the Forest Hill church and the Memphis School of Preaching welcomed Don and Jackie Walker who moved here from Austin, Texas after spending several years teaching in the Southwest School of Bible Studies, a work of the Southwest Church of Christ. Since that time brother Walker has served as an instructor in the Memphis School of Preaching and as Dean of Admissions. Sister Walker has served as one of our school secretaries. However, the Walkers will soon be returning to Austin and rejoining the staff at Southeast as the Director of the Southwest School of Bible Studies, succeeding brother Rick Brumbeck in that role.

While we have enjoyed our association with brother and sister Walker and would have been delighted for such to continue, we wish them well as they return to Southwest. Since I served that congregation as its pulpit preacher from 1999-2000, I realize that Southwest is a very special place and I know that great preachers of the gospel will be trained under the leadership of brother Don Walker.
